AURORA VII

RACE FOR THE GATE

TERRITORY SPECIAL RULES

Twelve battlefield rules / Owner advantages / Placement and timing

Player-facing campaign rules. Future Events, missions and story remain private.

Revision 2026.10.29 | 29 October 2026

Contents

Use the PDF bookmarks to jump directly to a section.

Contents 2

1. Scope and timing 3

2. Verde Wilds / Greenwood 4

3. Korin Range 4

4. Crystal Frontier 5

5. Azure Coast 6

6. Echo Shores 6

7. Harmony Province 7

8. Ember Highlands 7

9. Sulfur Basin 8

10. Frostreach Wastes 9

11. Northward Expanse 10

12. Iron Corridor 10

13. Nova Prospect 11

1. Scope and timing

Which document governs?

This revision supersedes earlier Aurora VII campaign wording. The GM and Player Guides share the same public scoring and timing rules. The Territory Special Rules govern territory effects; the Terrain Guide governs construction guidance. Current mission sheets govern deployment, mandatory objective positions, Scenario Skills and OP scoring. Future GM material stays private.

Use the N5 rules and the ordinary mission edition named in the Turn briefing. Campaign exceptions override the corresponding baseline rule only where expressly stated. A mission sheet's explicit campaign exception takes precedence. Otherwise keep mission deployment and mandatory objectives intact; apply the territory rule and current Event together. A prohibition overrides an ordinary permission or benefit: an Event banning Parachutist prevents Nova Prospect arrival, and a Repeater outage provides no additional penalty where Repeaters are already disabled.

If two effects cannot both be applied and the pack supplies no resolution, obtain a GM ruling before deployment. The GM publishes the ruling for all equivalent games; players do not improvise different versions.

Territory games and Narrative games

Territorial games use their selected territory's battlefield rule and any eligible owner advantage, plus the current Campaign Event. Narrative games use their mission sheet and current Event; territory rules and owner advantages do not apply unless that sheet explicitly names them. A Narrative result is never also a territorial result.

Ownership and once-per-game benefits

Owner means the Conquest faction recorded as controller at the start of the Campaign Turn. Ownership remains fixed throughout that Turn. Only a player registered to that faction receives its advantage in a territorial game there. Tohaa support, CA Infiltration and NA2 employment do not confer ownership or lend its advantage to another faction. Each eligible player may use the advantage once in each game unless its rule instead grants a pre-game benefit.

Before deployment

Confirm the campaign location, applicable rule, Turn-start controller, legal armies, Event and mission sheet. Mark terrain boundaries and agree which surfaces count as interiors, trails, water or clearings before deploying. An army must meet territory exclusions as well as normal points, SWC and availability. A map illustration does not grant a game trait by itself.

Choose all benefits stated as before deployment or at the beginning of the scenario after the final army is confirmed and before either player deploys. Declare the choice to the opponent, recording it privately with the GM if it identifies a trooper whose identity must remain private under the normal rules. Once-per-game choices and rerolls must be declared in their stated window; no roll may be rerolled more than once unless a rule explicitly permits a further reroll.

2. Verde Wilds / Greenwood

Closed Canopy

Battlefield rule

- Profiles with Aerial cannot be included.

- Line of Sight is limited to 24 inches, regardless of elevation. Skills and attacks that do not require Line of Sight work normally.

Owner advantage - Canopy Sightlines

Once per game, one friendly trooper may draw Line of Sight up to 32 inches for one Order. Declare before its first Skill. An enemy targeted this way receives reciprocal Line of Sight to that trooper for the Order. Terrain still blocks Line of Sight normally.

3. Korin Range

Mountain Country

Battlefield rule

- All terrain is Mountain Difficult Terrain, except trails, clearings and building areas agreed before deployment.

- TAGs cannot be included. Broad routes and stable landings are still required for legal large-base models; TAG-capable construction is a clearance standard, not permission to field TAGs here.

Owner advantage - Mountain Guides

Before deployment, choose three friendly troopers. They gain Terrain (Mountain) for the game. If the army has fewer than three troopers, choose all available troopers.

4. Crystal Frontier

Electromagnetic Interference

Battlefield rule

- Repeaters do not extend a Hacker's Hacking Area. Hackers can still use their own Hacking Area normally.

- Repeaters remain on the table and may still be targeted or affected by rules that interact with them.

Owner advantage - Shielded Systems

Once per game, reroll one failed Saving Roll caused by a Hacking Attack or an E/M weapon. Accept the second result.

5. Azure Coast

Tidal Channels

Battlefield rule

- All marked water features are Aquatic Difficult Terrain.

- A trooper with Terrain (Aquatic) or Terrain (Total) whose base is entirely inside a water feature gains Total Cover while in that area.

- An observer with Terrain (Aquatic) or Terrain (Total) ignores this water-based Total Cover when drawing Line of Sight to the protected trooper. Physical scenery still blocks Line of Sight normally.

- If the protected trooper declares a Skill that would normally break Stealth, it loses this water-based Total Cover for the rest of that Order. After the Order, protection returns if it still qualifies.

- After mission objectives and Deployment Zones are fixed, before deployment, place four Supply Caches functioning as Panoplies. The player who chose Deployment places first; alternate until each has placed two. Each cache must be wholly outside both Deployment Zones, on a stable accessible surface, at least 4 inches from every other objective/cache, and clear of scenery and mandatory objective footprints. A cache is an additional object, not a replacement for a mission objective. It awards no extra OP unless the mission expressly scores it.

- If four caches cannot fit legally, adjust ordinary scenery before deployment; never move a mandatory mission objective or waive the mission's placement requirements. Use the mission's Panoply restrictions where applicable and the normal Panoply procedure otherwise.

Owner advantage - Corrosion Protection

Once per game, reroll one failed Saving Roll made by a friendly trooper with STR. Accept the second result.

6. Echo Shores

Black-Market Arsenal

Battlefield rule

- All troopers with the Irregular characteristic gain Booty.

- Troopers that already have Booty may reroll their Booty result once, accepting the second result.

- Normal army-building restrictions remain unchanged.

Owner advantage - First Pick

Once per game, the owner may reroll one friendly trooper's Booty result. This may be used after the battlefield-rule reroll; this is an explicit exception allowing that further reroll. The new result stands.

7. Harmony Province

Security Surveillance

Battlefield rule

- All Discover Rolls receive +3 WIP.

- Troopers cannot deploy in or enter Camouflaged State. Profiles with Camouflage may be included and deploy as models.

- Impersonation and Hidden Deployment work normally.

Owner advantage - Surveillance Intelligence

Once per game, reroll one failed WIP Roll to accomplish a mission objective. Accept the second result.

8. Ember Highlands

Volcanic Updrafts

Battlefield rule

- Troopers cannot use Super-Jump, including Super-Jump (Jet Propulsion).

- Ordinary Jump works normally. Provide accessible routes between elevations so this prohibition does not strand a legal army or make a mandatory objective unreachable.

Owner advantage - Stable Footing

Once per game, one friendly trooper may declare ordinary Jump as a Short Movement Skill instead of an Entire Order for one Order. Declare this before its first Skill. All other ordinary Jump restrictions apply.

9. Sulfur Basin

Toxic Fumes

Battlefield rule

- All areas outside agreed building interiors are Toxic Zones, including exposed roofs, open platforms and exterior stairs. Enclosed interiors are exempt; being beneath an open-sided canopy alone is not an interior.

- Once per Order, a trooper whose base enters or moves within a Toxic Zone makes one ARM Saving Roll against PS 10 at the end of that Order. This applies in both Active and Reactive turns. Count any Skill movement, including Move, Dodge, Jump, Climb and movement on arrival, if the base enters or moves within the zone. Movement entirely inside an agreed interior does not trigger it.

- A failed Saving Roll causes 1 Wound or STR damage, as appropriate. Remaining stationary does not trigger a roll. Entering and leaving during the same Order still triggers one roll; making several movements during it never triggers more than one.

- Troopers with Immunity (ARM), Immunity (Enhanced), Immunity (BTS), Immunity (Continuous Damage) or Terrain (Total) ignore this territory rule.

- This protection extends to every trooper in a Fireteam containing a trooper with one of those skills. Check Fireteam membership and the protecting skill at the end of the Order, after resolving Skills and attacks and before the Toxic Fumes roll. A trooper that no longer belongs to a qualifying Fireteam receives no team protection; one with its own listed skill remains protected.

Owner advantage - Protected Crossing

At the beginning of the scenario, before deployment, choose one friendly trooper. It gains Terrain (Total) for the scenario. Its Fireteam receives Toxic Fumes protection while it contains that trooper and qualifies at the protection check. This protection does not grant Terrain (Total) itself to the other members.

10. Frostreach Wastes

Drifting Snowstorms

Battlefield rule

- Use three 5-inch-diameter numbered blizzard templates. They represent vertical zones above their complete circular footprints, including roofs and raised ground; the center hole is only a measuring aid. Before deployment, place their centers on the centerline halfway between player edges: one at table center and one 12 inches to either side along that line.

- Before deployment, point all three orange 1/11 arrows toward the same agreed table edge. Keep that orientation fixed for the entire game. Move templates by translation only; do not rotate them to change a direction.

- At the start of each Player Turn, roll a separate d20 for each storm. Find that result on its outer numbered ring and move its center 6 inches straight in the direction of the matching arrow. Each arrow carries two results: 1/11, 2/12, 3/13, 4/14, 5/15, 6/16, 7/17, 8/18, 9/19 and 10/20. For example, a 14 follows the arrow marked 4/14. A storm passes over scenery. Remove it when its center crosses a table edge; it does not reappear.

- Storms are Difficult Terrain Zones. BS Attacks whose Line of Sight passes through a storm suffer -3, including attacks starting or ending inside one. Overlapping storms do not stack this penalty.

Owner advantage - Weather Reading

Once per game, after one storm's direction roll but before moving it, reroll or negate that roll. Accept a reroll and move using its result; negating leaves that storm stationary for this movement only.

11. Northward Expanse

Frontier Reconnaissance

Battlefield rule

- All Light Infantry (LI) gain Forward Deployment (+4 inches). This does not stack with existing Forward Deployment; use the better value.

Owner advantage - Surveyed Approaches

Before deployment, choose one friendly Light Infantry trooper. It gains Forward Deployment (+8 inches) instead. Use the better value if it already has Forward Deployment; do not add the distances.

12. Iron Corridor

Reinforced Industrial Zone

Battlefield rule

- Increase the ARM bonus granted by Partial Cover by 1.

- Template Weapons do not ignore the ARM bonus granted by Partial Cover, including the territory's extra +1 ARM. The trooper must meet normal Partial Cover requirements against the attacker.

Owner advantage - Prepared Position

Once per game, before any rolls during an Order, choose one friendly trooper. Increase the ARM bonus it receives from Partial Cover by an additional +3 for the rest of that Order. It must qualify for Partial Cover against each attack.

13. Nova Prospect

Rapid Transit Network

Battlefield rule

- Troopers that already have Parachutist may arrive without spending their own Order. This rule does not grant Parachutist or override a mission/Event prohibition.

- At the start of your Active Turn, after the normal Order count and before spending any Orders, you may declare a free Parachutist arrival for each eligible off-table trooper. Resolve arrivals one at a time, including AROs and all effects of each arrival before starting the next. No free arrivals occur during the opponent's turn.

- Each arrival otherwise follows normal Parachutist declaration and placement restrictions, including no Partial Cover during the arrival Order. It counts as an Order for AROs, terrain effects and other Order-based checks, despite its zero activation cost.

- After arriving, the trooper retains one Order of its normal Regular or Irregular type for use that turn. Add a retained Regular Order to its Combat Group pool; keep an Irregular Order personal. Count that Order only once: if already included in the turn's Order count, do not add another. This rule does not move Orders between Combat Groups.

Owner advantage - Transit Priority

Before deployment, choose one friendly trooper that already has Parachutist. It gains Tactical Awareness in addition to the rapid transit benefit. A trooper that already has Tactical Awareness receives no second Tactical Order. Make its Tactical Awareness Order available after arrival if otherwise eligible; do not count it twice.